What we’ll do

- Suitable clothing and footwear for the season.

The tutor
David Plummer is a Sussex based freelance wildlife photographer. He writes many illustrated magazine articles for both the wildlife and photographic press. He also contributes to many books and publications and gives many lectures. He shoots for both publication and stock and is represented by Papilio photographic agency. As well teaching nature photography courses for Sussex Wildlife Trust and WWT he offers many other specialist courses throughout the year. David also has a fascination with badgers and runs many courses and events on badger watching, biology and photography.
