Getting to know the Wild Flowers of East Sussex - Woodlands

When
Sunday 19th April 2015
10am to 4pm

Where
Hastings Country Park

Description
We start in the ‘The Old Milking Parlour’ (Rangers’ Centre), with a short presentation on ancient woodland, its origin in the weald, and the wild flowers of this special habitat.

We then explore the Country Park and discover the rich diversity of flowering plants that occur in ancient woodland. We spend time looking at each species of wild flower, finding and discussing the key features which help with identification.

What we’ll do
We may encounter other wildlife such as butterflies and birds, which will add to the day’s enjoyment.

We will have lunch in the field at a convenient time and we return to the centre in time for tea.

Basic interest in flowers is required.

The tutor
