Description

This classroom-based course is a one day introduction to silk flower making.

What we’ll do

You will learn the skills and processes required to make a beautiful silk organza rose, many of which Anne has developed herself; including shaping petals and leaves using traditional French millinery tools, mixing and painting with dyes, binding stems and bonding fabrics.

Anne Tomlin

Anne Tomlin graduated from West Surrey College of Art in 1983 with a First Class Honours Degree in Textile Design, and then trained to be a Milliner at the London College of Fashion. She began making hats under her own name before founding BaileyTomlin in 1989, with Bridget Bailey, where for 20 years she designed for stores such as Harrods, Liberty, Mulberry and Saks 5th Avenue, as well as taking private commissions. Since then she has returned to her love of nature and colour, using a variety of techniques to make smaller, more intricate pieces including wild flowers, bees and butterflies as hair adornments and jewellery.

Suitability and other info
